EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Founders Introduction

Having left the Royal Marine Commandos due to severe injury. My transition to civilian life was far from easy, but better than for many Veterans. We are, if not discriminated against, marginalised and overlooked. I'm determined to make change for our communities, for the better through ExFor+ CIC, which I founded. I believe that new technology, in the guise of VKTN and Blockchain can be the catalyst. For further reading about myself and the rationale behind VTKN, please see Appendices A and B at the end of this document.

Objective:

The objective of VTKN is to create a new global support ecosystem powered by the ERC20 token that is able to be utilised in trade, exchange, transactions and donations. It is designed for the support of the communities in which we live, to aid them to grow socially and economically. ExFor+ CIC will continue to provide, support and offer employment opportunities to veterans and service personnel that have been willing to protect their countries freedoms and rights. ExFor+ CIC aim to be able to give further purpose to those who have served, by utilising the specialist skills and experiences, that they have gained whilst being willing to sacrifice for all. Our aim is become a global organisation that uses emerging technologies, without limits to what can be achieved. ExFor+ CIC have many unique initiatives already in the pipeline that have not yet been brought to an old, antiquated and technology resistant support sector, we plan to be the new leaders in our field.

EXFOR+ CIC

Goals:

Our goals are simple:

Employ veterans of Emergency services and or the Armed Forces, providing transitional employment and support. Utilising the skills and experiences of this specialist cohort to provide back to the countries in which they have served.

To work for the community, to grow and strengthen them, so that we are all able to have a good standard of living.

To reduce Homelessness, Crime, Mental Health difficulties and increase life chances for all.

To centralise a fragmented and uncoordinated charity sector.

Working with government departments to be the 'go to' organisation for all things positive needed within the communities.

To continue and develop the work already started and undertaken by ExFor+ CIC.

Solution:

VTKN is a solution that enables many to support those who are in need of being supported within society and the communities in which we live. One that is different to the current structures that are already in place. Often utilising the beneficiaries to raise money and awareness of issues, often funding wages of non beneficiaries and not focusing on the beneficiary. We aim to be different to the processes of yesteryear. We plan to place the beneficiary first.

VTKN is being created by the founder of ExFor+ CIC who has been written about in UK National press and Media.

The founder of ExFor+ CIC has been noted as being a force for good and positive change. His personal aims and goals are to create a system that is easy to understand and engage with that provides support when support is needed.

VTKN can be utilised for purchasing goods and controlling which goods can be bought, this is especially important when individuals who may be classed as vulnerable are in need of immediate support. Current systems have proven to be ineffective often having loop holes. Utilising the Tech that is being developed by

ExFor+ CIC will enable charities, organisations and individuals to donate to those in need with confidence, knowing that the funds are not being misused.

VTKN provides opportunities to those who decide to engage with the ERC20 token and smart contract to share, transfer, gift and provide to the communities in which they live. We have also seen the value of some ERC20 tokens increase significantly over the years, We hope that those who invest will want to also pay forwards some of any prospective gains.

VTKN can also be utilised by the veteran community to provide personal payments for health, wellbeing and support services, this process is currently being worked on, over time it may require a further ERC20 token to be developed and deployed that is backed by VTKN. As VTKN has a capped initial supply of 1bn VTKN.

Project Outline:

ExFor+ CIC has been in development since 2013, but formally providing support to individuals who have served, their families and the communities in which we all live since 2018. Covid hit at the end of 2019 beginning of 2020 and ExFor+ CIC were unable to keep up at the time with the developments required for internet based support services being a relatively new organisation. Throughout the pandemic however, ExFor+ CIC worked hard to provide support to those who we were already supporting and to help in national efforts during the height of the pandemic.

With the pace of emerging technologies ExFor+ CIC needed to adapt and diversify their offering to remain relevant on a global scale. Many charities have also withdrawn or closed their services, leading to many individuals suffering poor mental health and also struggling financially. We plan to change all of this.

The charity and Veteran Support Sector has for a long time needed to be overhauled and with watching how new technologies can provide opportunity VTKN was born. VTKN can resolve many of the current issues not only within the UK, but globally and we welcome the support from all those who wish to see the planet prosper.

We want to work in reducing:

- Environmental dangers for future generations,
- Food poverty,
- Homelessness,
- Poor Mental Health,
- Unemployment
- Criminal Activity
- Substance misuse

We want to increase the life chances of the under privileged and support the vulnerable. We want to create a UBI, we want to stop children from going hungry. We have worked with National Government contractors and have provided support too many in difficult situations. We believe we can continue to do this with your support, the power of all and the belief in VTKN and ExFor+ CIC.

APPENDICES

Appendix A:

Founders Overview:

When leaving the Armed Forces, I lost my purpose and passion. Ever since I was an 8 year old boy, I wanted to serve and protect my family and community. I spent years in preparation to join the Armed Forces, being a cadet, going through further education, training physically in martial arts and pushing myself. I always wanted to be the best of the best. One day in my early 20's after having significant facial surgery to correct an underbite, I went to the Armed Forces Careers Office. They asked "what did I want to do?" and I outlined I wanted to be the best of the best. At that time I thought it was the Parachute Regiment and the Special Air Service, saying this to the Royal Marine Commando Corporal in front of me lead to a response. "Why be a Para when you can be a Marine, 99.99% need not apply you know, be the best be a Marine". That was all I needed my internal ambition of being a 0.01% individual was what lead me to join the Royal Marines and go through some of the worlds most arduous training.

I was unfortunately injured early on in my career. I sustained multiple injuries both physical and mental health related. I ended up being medically discharged after serving a little over 5 years and becoming 1 of the 2.5m veterans in the UK. Many will say "I've spent more time in the Scrان queue". However the medical discharge was just the beginning. I was then unemployed, soon to be married, with a mortgage and didn't know what I was going to do next. I sent some 300 applications to employers receiving only 3 responses. I was fortunate to have received a response from a fantastic employer who could see my value. I worked with them for almost 9 years, within which time I managed to change the lives of 100's of individuals, develop new working processes and work with individuals from all walks of life. I somehow specialised in supporting the most vulnerable most likely because I could understand their struggles but also their determination to make positive changes.

I worked on making a positive change, or one that I thought was positive, the plan was to develop a national transitional employer for those who have served their country, but all too often becoming lost and not having a purpose.

I established ExFor+ CIC, gained grant funding in late 2017 and launched ExFor+ CIC from the House of Commons in the UK. The Grant funding was greatly welcomed but with it ExFor+ CIC could only implement a small part of a larger business plan. I was also having to focus on delivering support to meet the obligations of the grant funding and in this time also take on employees and aid them with their own personal development and growth this covered the period of 2018 to the end of 2019. Grant funding expired in early 2019 and since then I have mostly self funded the continuation of ExFor+ CIC.

Covid 19 hit and basically brought an end to all face to face meetings in early 2020 which was the premise of the work that ExFor+ CIC was undertaking. This lead to me to understand the fragility of businesses further and also look at other ways of achieving the outcomes needed and required for a community that suddenly found themselves in isolation and lockdown.

I turned towards new and emerging technologies and haven't looked back, I have taken sometime to understand Blockchain from the inside out and I have watched as many have amassed wealth from this sector, I hope to create wealth in many areas, in individuals lives, communities and more. I believe this can be achieved through Blockchain technology and that is why I developed the VTKN.

Appendix B:

Founders Rationale:

In the UK there are almost 2000 plus charities that support the UK Veteran and Armed Forces Community, there are many gaps and all too often individuals fall through these. There needs to be an overarching, non government organisation, that doesn't always rely on the kindness of others. Charities as a legal structure are believed to have lost their way over the past 100 years or so, they have become big businesses focusing on the income and outgoings and how they are going to keep up with the need.

ExFor+ CIC came to the sector with a business plan rather than a charity idea but is established as a Community Interest Company, working for the community. The plan was simple but hard to get funding for and to generate income from donations as the CIC legal structure is new too many. Our plan was to employ individuals who found it hard to gain employment after serving their country. To utilise their skills and experiences to provide back betterment to their community and country both socially and economically. Whilst in providing back the support to the long term unemployed and economically inactive, income would be generated from government contracts. Along with a number of other avenues. Also an aim was to bring about a centralised structure that could help, support, employ and create positive change to peoples lives, often gaining income from donations to undertake this purpose.

From my experience, what has been seen, is the charities are uncoordinated, vast and have accrued vast sums of currency that they now hold on to for the just incase, not always supporting their beneficiaries. Some charities have even spent vast sums of the donations that they have received on executive salaries and initiatives that have not been supportive to beneficiaries.

The charity sector for the veteran community in the UK alone is worth approximately £863m a year in the UK. Its big money and individuals want to maintain their organisation and wages, sometimes not placing the beneficiary first and foremost. These charities have become more business focused than beneficiary focused and this goes against what I am trying to achieve with ExFor+ CIC.

With the VTKN and ExFor+ CIC there is the potential for all to win, the beneficiaries, the supporters of the VTKN and also the communities in which we all live around the world. Our aim is a global one, one which redefines the old perceptions. One that is forward thinking and progressive, one that supports the vulnerable, provides back and is supported by all.
